- Vickie Marler provided information about several community projects, such as the restroom restoration at Clear Creek Preserve, and the installation of awnings at the People of Progress building. She said that volunteers are needed on August 5-6 to help install borders around the playground equipment at Chrysalis Charter School. For more information, please contact Vickie.

Jean King: For her trip to London and Oxford. $200.

David Howland: For his opening of a Subway restaurant in Red Bluff and his acquisition of several Izzy's franchise locations in Oregon, converting them to Round Table Pizza restaurants. $200.

Maggie Redmon: For her trip to Ireland. $200.

Jake Mangas

Program: Due to the unavailability of the scheduled program speaker, the Club's own Jake Mangas stepped up and gave an impromptu program about the Redding Chamber of Commerce. For over 100 years, the Chamber has been dedicated to creating and enhancing the business climate in Redding. As the new President/CEO of the Chamber, Jake inherited some of the efforts to re-brand the Chamber, such as its new logo and its new slogan: "We champion your business." The Chamber strives to work in partnership with other business associations, such as the Economic Development Corporation, Cascade Wonderland Association, and the Builders' Exchange. The Chamber wants the business community to think of the Chamber as its champion and to go to the Chamber first for assistance. The Chamber has established a Facebook presence and upgraded its website to make it easier for businesses to obtain answers to their questions. The Chamber provides tangible value opportunities for its membership, such as discounts through Office Depot/Office Max, free advertising vouchers, and digital outreach through social media. The Chamber is also working on a program geared to professional and career advancement for 21-39 year olds. Stay tuned for more details as that program is rolled out. The on-going philosophy of the Chamber can be summed up in the following words: "We owe it to our community to outshine its challenges." Thank you Jake for an insightful and informative presentation, especially done on short notice.
