Today's Program - Enoven

Jack Kimple introduced our speakers for today from Enoven Industries, CEO Sam Enochian, and Dustin Ferris, Director of Sales.

Enoven Truck Body + Equipment (Enoven) is a work truck body builder and full-service truck equipment company with locations in Texas, Oregon, Sacramento, San Diego, Roseville, and right here in Redding. Enoven manufactures and installs a variety of light, medium, and heavy duty truck bodies.

Sam spoke about the history of the company from his acquisition of Tom's House of Hydraulics in 1987 to the founding of Enoven in 2014. Enoven of Redding was founded that same year, and since then the company has enjoyed sales in excess of $40M.

Dustin spoke about the specific work done at their Redding operation. The commercial vehicles they fabricate are used in municipal, landscape, construction, and lumber industries. The types of vehicles produced include dump trucks, water trucks, landscape bodies, chipper bodies, service bodies and liftgates. He also spoke about the great relationship they have with Shasta College.

Sam spent the balance of the presentation talking about the challenges they are facing with federal and state mandates related to Zero Emissions Vehicles (ZEV). These mandates are forcing manufacturers like Enoven to ramp up an increasing percentage of ZEV products over the next several years. He shared the financial implications of costs for vehicle production, charging station infrastructure build up, and electricity. One astonishing figure he shared is that the current cost for a three axle day cab truck with a diesel engine is around $175,000, and the projected cost of a similar ZEV truck at $569,000.
